His Branches

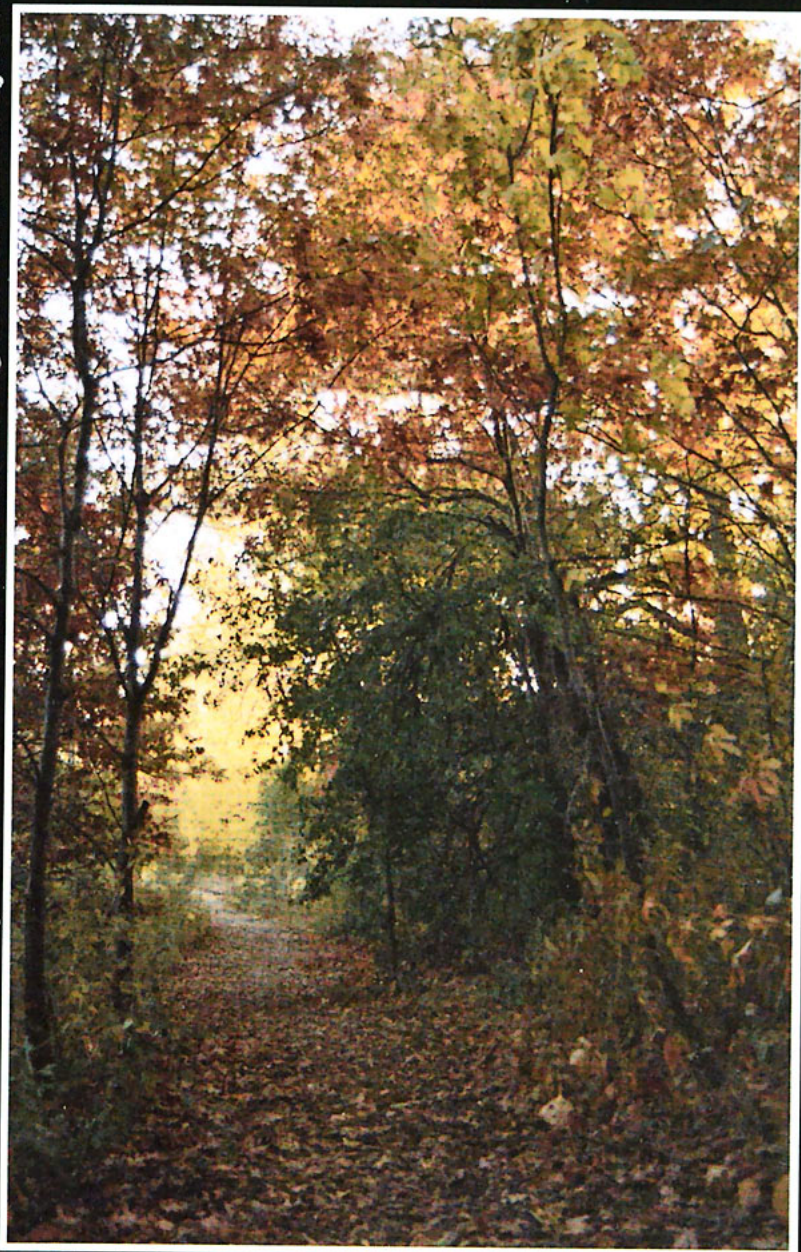

The truths in John 15:4-5 struck home to me one day while studying the Word. God was impressing on me how easy it is to become apathetic, and therefore producing no fruit. Jesus Christ is the Vine and the source of all power and life. By choosing to walk in disobedience or just not letting my branch be fed, I can cut off my life source. The Vine commands me to abide in Him and if I do I will receive the blessing of growing in Christ and bearing fruit for the Kingdom.

This is not to say that gentle summer weather will always come my way. Rain and hail will bear down on my branch, I'll get into freezing places, and snow will weight me down, but by choosing to abide in the Vine, I will not be cut off. And in the process of weathering the storm the Father is sanctifying my branch, keeping it ready to bear more fruit.

College students are accustomed to making friends and growing through the years together. Every day our branches touch each other and we learn how to support the branches around us during stormy weather. But at the end of every year we must say goodbye to fellow branches, entrusting them to the Vine. Each one will take a new and exciting path to a job, or marriage, or mission field, or ministry.

A certain road brought us to Northwestern and our paths merged together for awhile. But then we know that by just being here we are reaching for higher goals that will lead in new directions for each one of us.

The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that, the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I —
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

Branching Out

As the branches of Jesus Christ, the Vine, Northwestern students have many opportunities to encourage each other and grow. Friendships flourish when students take time to talk and pray together, study groups help everyone make the most of their learning, and Bible Studies remind Northwesterners that we only bear fruit by Christ's power in us. Often the opportunity to bear fruit is not so far away. It is as close as forgiving a roommate, praying with a friend, and encouraging a teacher.

The Start Of Something Big

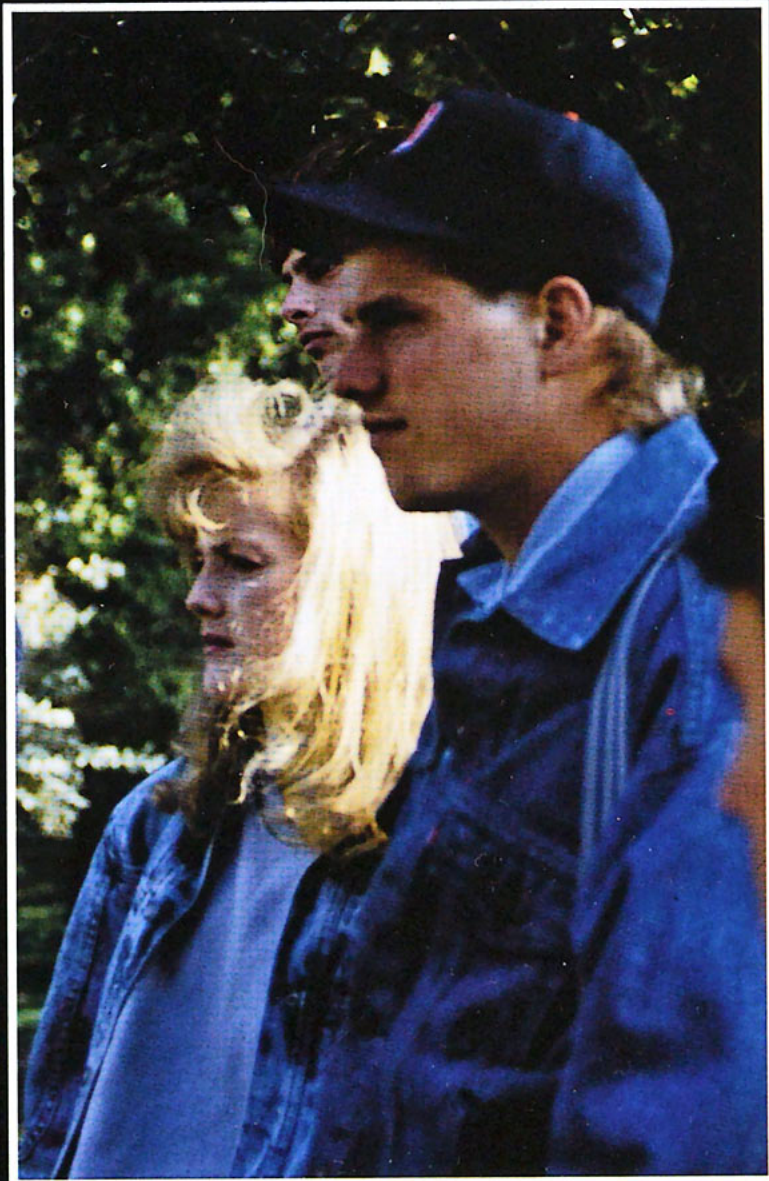

The Freshman, all 490 of them, arrived in bursting carloads on September 3rd. They were ready to meet roommates and have some hard-earned fun before classes started. Athletes were already settled in, and the Resident Assistants had stenciled the rock in a welcoming, "Take it to Heart".

Finally, the upper-classmen came. Sophomores, proud to be returning students; Juniors, upperclassmen at last; and Seniors, some nostalgic and others rejoicing at the thought of their last year of college. September began with the fresh and the familiar, a distinctive body of Northwestern students, all eager to meet the coming year.

One of the chapels that first week of Fall quarter was devoted to prayer. The Student Body, Faculty, and Staff gathered on the steps and field around the fountain where the Bruskes lead a time of worship. After this, groups of people went all over the campus to pray for the different departments and aspects of life at Northwestern. It was a great way to start off the year and look forward to God's directing and grace.

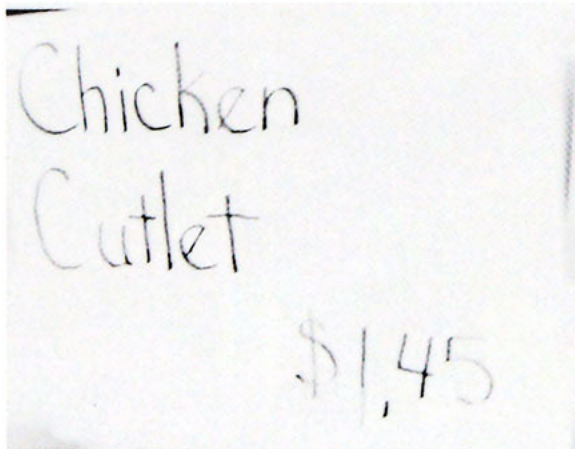

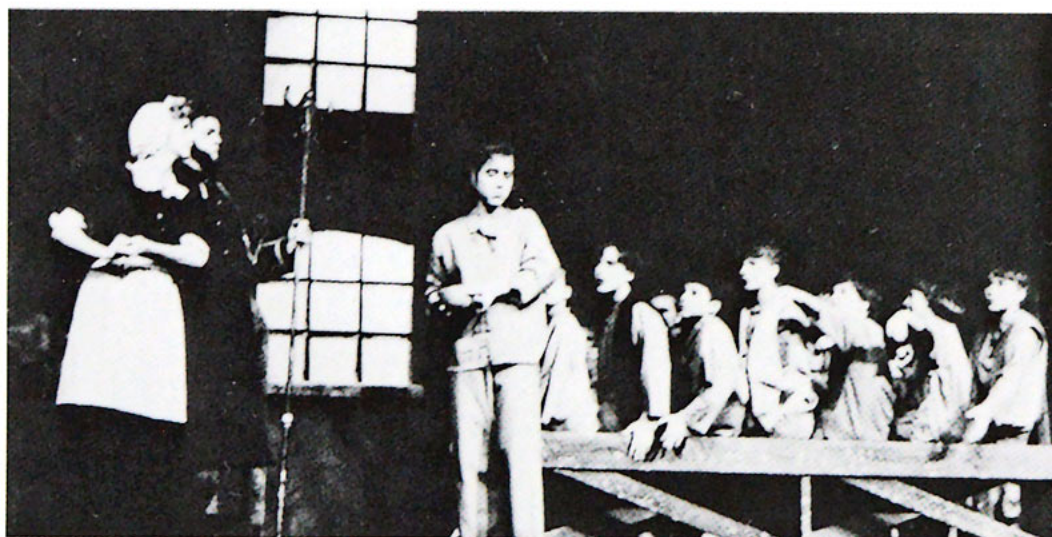

Food, Glorious Food!

News from the cafeteria is not always glorious. After fighting their way through the tunnel or past the rich odors of the outdoor dumpster, students are eager for solid fare. What they usually find looks multi-colored and mysterious. Hence, the massive consumption of chicken cutlets, which, if not exotic, are at least honest.

However, five days of chicken cutlets can weary the most patient palate. For students seeking culinary excitement, the Eagle's Nest offers all the old classics, plus some new ones. Frozen yogurt and special sundaes round out the menu, and the french-fries and pizza are a welcomed study-break snack.

"All we ever get is cutlets!
Everyday we say a prayer;
Will they ever change the bill of fare?
Still we get the same old
cutlets."

"Please, Sir, Can I Have
Something, Something Besides A
Cutlet?"

With sunny hair and smiles, the 1988 Northwestern Homecoming Court lit up the Coronation Chapel on Friday, September 30th. All six candidates and their escorts deserved the honor. Each woman had given her testimony the previous Monday, and amidst trumpet fanfare and spotlight, Dr. Ericksen announced Miss Northwestern 1988 — Laurie Elizabeth Legree.

Homecoming continued in earnest with Saturday soccer, football, and volleyball. Despite a valiant effort by Northwestern, a last-minute goal put St. Paul over the Bobs. Football also suffered a narrow 27-30 loss, but before students and alumni questioned their Northwestern pride, the volleyball team defeated Martin Luther in five sets.

The Homecoming banquet in the Blue Room on Friday night boasted some surprises. All six glowing Miss Northwestern candidates, dressed in formals and accessorized as nerds, lip-synced to the song, "I Feel Pretty."

The students picked up the spirit of Dress-Up days. Monday was beach day, where Nazareth had the biggest turn-out of shorts since Spring. Tuesday was a sleeper's holiday; come-as-you-are delighted the pajama lovers. Wednesday, Troy Stennes Day, sported suit-coats and briefcases in honor of Northwestern's best-pressed student. Thursday was the ever-popular Nerd Day, and Friday showed school spirit in Northwestern's royal purple and gold.

After the banquet, students and alumni hurried to catch Twila Paris in concert. Twila's genuine love for God was revealed in her songs. She gently and joyfully pointed away from herself to Him. The time of worship was a fitting end to Friday's coronation and a reminder that the best part of Homecoming is the chance to praise God with friends.

Perspectives

Reluctance

Out through the fields and the woods
And over the walls I have wended;
I have climbed the hills of view
And looked at the world, and descended;
I have come by the highway home,
And lo, it is ended.

The leaves are all dead on the ground,
Save those that the oak is keeping
To ravel them one by one
And let them go scraping and creeping
Our over the crusted snow,
When others are sleeping.

And the dead leaves lie huddled and still,
No longer blown hither and thither;
The last lone aster is gone;
The flowers of the witch hazel wither;
The heart is still aching to seek,
But the feet question "Whither?"

Ah, when to the heart of man
Was it ever less than a treason
To go with the drift of things,
To yield with a grace to reason,
And bow and accept the end
Of a love or a season?

Northwestern Student Association

Have you been searching for Jim, Audie, Val, John, Tommy or Ann? All you'll hear on the phone is, "Hello, you have reached the Northwestern Student Association. Unfortunately no one is in the office at this moment, but if you would leave your name and number we'll get back to you."

No one actually talks to an NWSA person on the first phone call. But the machine records messages faithfully. Questions ask about concerts and activities the NWSA sponsors.

Youth Conference '89, January 26-

28, helped high schoolers check out the college scene. Farrell and Farrell, Alan Chase, Twila Paris, Steve Camp and David Meese all performed at Maranatha sponsored by the NWSA. Other highlights included NWC student group "The Mirrors" complete with a full light show and band, and Rhino Hunting during the Youth Conference.

NWSA opened the residences over Fall and Spring breaks for students needing dorms. The association also provided Administration with alternatives to rising tuition costs.

RA's

Resident Advisors (RA's) are a vital part of the NWC Community. An RA is a student who makes a one year commitment to leadership within the residence halls. Coordinating floor activities such as socials, 1:9 groups, floor meetings and Brother/Sister floor gatherings are an important part of the RA job description. But more than that the RA is a friend to fellow students. Starting with orientation, an RA may be seen daily in Chapel, inspections, prayer groups, and a variety of residence activities. RA's have scheduled "on duty" hours and work closely with the Student Development staff. More than one RA has been known to say, "if I wasn't so tired all the time, I could really enjoy this job." Because the job places additional responsibility on the students who fill these roles, a servant-heart and a real desire to be available is a necessary part a Resident Advisor's life.

Student Missions Fellowship

The Student Missions Fellowship strives to spread the Word of God throughout the earth. Weekly meetings expose Northwestern students to missions work and needs around the world. The weekly Chapel offering is used entirely in support of students in their missionary experiences.

Students who spend two to three weeks in summer ministry overseas. The 1988 summer action team travelled to Roatan, Honduras to complete construction on a local church. The 1987 team had begun the project. By working with local Christian pastors and missionaries, Northwestern students gain valuable experience with overseas missions.

ISF

The International Student Fellowship provides a group setting for students and faculty from other countries. The common background of international experience helps students feel welcome and gives them a place to meet friends.

ISF's cosmopolitan atmosphere comes to life at parties and meetings where members bring food, pictures and stories from places all over the world. ISF provides a bond between students and faculty who share the experience of having lived somewhere else before coming to Northwestern.

The yearly ISF chapel gives other students the chance to see the world through different eyes, as international students don dress and language of cultures all over the world.

History Club

The History Club at Northwestern College studies the historical aspect of a variety of things. Generally they tried to meet at least once a month. Their activities included attending archaeological lectures and museums. The main goal of the History Club is to promote an interest in the study of history among the students of NWC.

College Republicans is a national organization of collegic clubs to promote political awareness and activism from a conservative view. Activities include meetings, campaigning, and attending political events. Their main goal at NWC is to get membership to 400 so they will be nationally recognized as a super school. If so they will get representation at the National Convention.

Amercian Society For Personal Advancement

The Northwestern College chapter of ASPA focuses on Human Resource Management. Business and Human Resources majors become members in order to familiarize themselves with the workings of personnel management.

ASPA acquaints students considering a future in personnel administration. The organization keeps students up-to-date on new developments in the field of personnel, so they will know the work place they enter upon graduation.

The ASPA organization of Northwestern works to develop a nucleus of truly professional personnel administrators for the future.

Society For Advancement Of Management

The Society for Advancement of Management gives members a personal introduction to the practicing managers in the local community. It exposes the most successful management techniques in current use. It transforms textbook theories into practical application and eases the transition from college to career. Their activities have included a special speaker and film. They meet once a week. Their main goal is to get the NWC library filled with more books relating to business which involves an extensive study.

American Marketing Association

Northwestern College is one of the four Minnesota chapters in the American Marketing Association. The chapter was formed in 1987 with 26 members, and in 1988, membership was around 50. The AMA, the largest of three business organizations on campus, meets weekly to involve students in all aspects of marketing, including advertising, research, buying, product development and sales.

Guardian Angels

G.A.'s Provide Prayer

The Guardian Angels have done their best to shine throughout this past year. A little over 100 students have added halos to the tops of their heads. Guardian Angels are students who wish to minister to faculty and staff members by remembering them through prayer, encouraging verses, cards, gifts and unique surprises. Each student who wishes to be involved in this ministry is given the name and birthdate of a particular faculty or staff member. The Guardian Angel remains anonymous until the revealing ceremony at the end of the year. It is a chance to give a little encouragement and appreciation to those special people who give so much of themselves to the student body.

ROTC

Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps (AFROTC) celebrated its second active year at NWC in '88-'89. Even though its population remained at one cadet, NWC became more aware of the program and a couple of students expressed an interest in future enrollment.

Having no peers in the program did not inhibit Cadet Ken Crane's posture in the corps. He was awarded several scholarships and placed in charge of the entire corps over winter and spring quarters. He "loved the job" which involved responsibility for training cadets from schools including Berthel, Augsburg, Hamline, Macalester, St. Thomas, St. Catherine, and community colleges.

Ken hopes more students will take advantage of the opportunities of Air Force officership. "The Air Force is a mission field, as well as a great place to serve my country and raise my family." Ken points out that Northwestern well equips students both spiritually and vocationally for military service. He adds, "A great part about it is that the Air Force offers to pay for Northwestern's education."

Capturing The Moments

The yearbook staff worked diligently to complete the 1989 Scroll. Although the staff was smaller than in previous years, the final product reflected the dedication of each individual member. Working late nights and weekends was not uncommon to the writers and photographer as they rushed to meet the deadlines. Jerry Beilby, the faculty advisor, Beth Claypool, the editor, and Katie Young the assistant editor, successfully guided the group through the year. The 1989 yearbook staff hopes that the words and pictures in each section will bring back memories.

NWC Report

NWC Report is a television newscast presented by NW students. Although Mr. Long advised each production of the Friday evening programs, the actual reports, video graphics, camera operations and reporting were done by students. Every quarter a new crew signed up to be a part of the productions. The news was broadcasted over a local cable network and gave the students an opportunity to learn what real T.V. broadcasting is all about. Though a majority of the students were broadcasting majors, anyone could sign up for a production opportunity.

The top 40 format of broadcasting included contemporary Christian music from top artists. Also, during the winter, the station brings home basketball games to each dorm room. WVOE is made up of six people on the executive staff and another twenty people who work with the radio station. These students find that one way to serve the Lord on campus is through the air waves.

BRATS

For two years now, this organization has encouraged Eagle fans to get enthusiastic about their teams. The BRATS, with its 180 members, have as their goal to support all of the Northwestern intercollegiate athletic teams. The members are easily recognized by their purple and gold T-shirts and the constant loud, fun and wild support of the NWC teams. A radical bunch of people provided leadership. Brendon Anderson, as the Eagle maniac, inspired the crowds with his zany costume, hair and makeup. Brad Carlson, as the Eagle mascot, provided plenty of entertainment for the crowd to enjoy. Stephanie Hemminger kept the crazy bunch organized, which was no easy task.

Team Sticks Together Through Tough Season

The 1988 Northwestern College football team started out the season with high expectations. The Eagles went through many good times and tough times during the course of the season. For the second year in a row, the Eagles could have gained a share of the Upper Midwest Conference crown with a victory in the last game of the season. But a heart breaking loss to Concordia-St. Paul on snowy Eagle field ended the Eagles' quest for the title. Even through the tough times the team always stayed together in friendship and in the strength of the Lord. Co-captains Kyle Eller and Kevin Venega always kept the team together with their veteran leadership. Several individuals broke school records this year. Freshman running-back David LaDay had the longest run from scrimmage (95 yards) and also shattered the single game rushing mark with 244 yards. Wide receiver Brian Hodnefield set a new season record for most receiving yards and linebacker Kirby Scull broke the single season tackle record. The Eagles look to next year as another promising season with many key players returning for them.

Despite a discouraging conference record the soccer team ended the year with a strong overall showing. A December trip to Kenya provided the year's highlight, as several team members and alumni joined forces to play soccer and give testimonies at halftime.

Their ministry turned out to consist of casual one-on-one contact with the Kenyans, who enjoyed the Northwestern ambassadors stay despite repeated losses to the Eagles. A canceled game provided time for a safari. The team returned home with stories of elephants and giraffes and a new love of the warm people of Kenya.

With a strong returning team of 11 players, the Eagles were anticipating a great season. However, several injuries at the beginning of the season served as a setback to the team. The highlight of the season was the Homecoming game against Dr. Martin Luther College, a strong rival. The Lady Eagles played hard and won a tough match in five games.

Head coach, Kimberly Kelly, was assisted by a new coach, Diane Beckman. Diane proved to be a great source of encouragement, and her knowledge of the game added to the strength of the team.

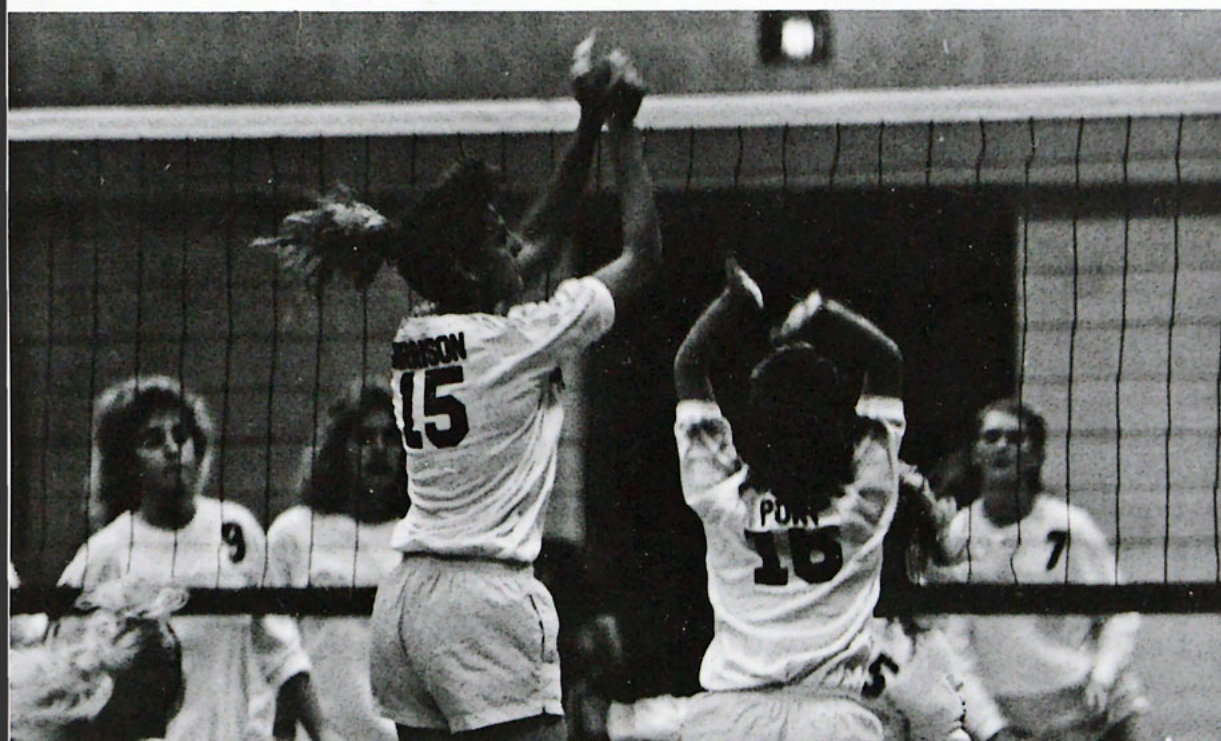

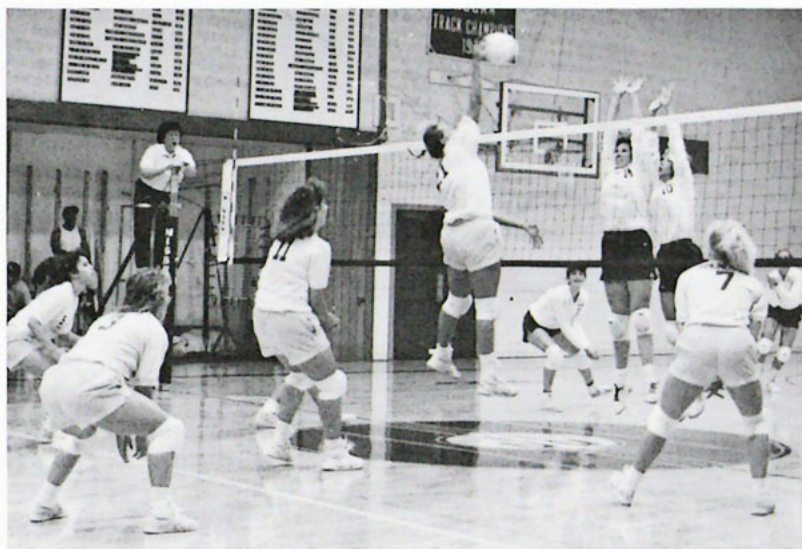

Several strong freshmen added depth to the team as did many returning sophomores and juniors who will carry the Volleyball team into a successful 1989 season. Sophomore Heidi Sprague was unanimously chosen All-District for the second year.

Seniors Erica "Flash" Gordon, Julie "Spike" Terning, and Lynn "The Tin Pin" Thompson have enjoyed their four years in the Eagle Volleyball team and wish next year's Lady Eagles much success.

NWC Cross Country

With the addition of continuing students new to the team, freshmen, transfer students, and returning team members, the men's and women's cross country teams recorded their greatest turnout ever of runners at NWC. Although major injuries plagued the runners throughout the season, strong performances by the women's team resulted in capturing two invitational, Southwest State, and DMLC. Both teams achieved peak performances at the National Meet in Cedarville, Ohio, with the women placing among the top teams present.

Team Bonds Well

This year's Northwestern men's basketball team was led by senior co-captains Joe Doran and Vance Severson. The season started out with two setbacks to Wisconsin-River Falls and Wisconsin Stout. Then the cagers took to the road over Thanksgiving break to Missouri where they played in a holiday tournament for small colleges. The Eagles ended up winning two of three games in Missouri. With strong games against Iowa conference power Wartburg and MIAC power St. Olaf, the Eagles looked to be a strong contender for the Upper Midwest Conference title. But a midseason knee injury to senior starter Joe Doran seemed to dash the hopes for Eagle fans. Even with the loss of Doran, however, the cagers were bonded together by coach Ron Bocken and played well for the remainder of the season. Some highlights of the season included defeating DMLC at New Ulm and winning both games against Pillsbury. The Eagles will look forward to the 1989-90 season when all but two starters will return to form a solid team nucleus.

NWC Women's Basketball: The Right Stuff

After a lot of hard work and many tough practices, the girls basketball team played their way to a great season.

The captains of the team are seniors, Julie Lundsberg and Lisa Collins. According to coach Dan Smith they have shown a lot of leadership within the team this year. Julie and Lisa are fourth year players and have been working with Smith since their freshman year. Smith feels that this is an advantage because they have a lot of new ideas and through them he can feel the mood of the team.

Winning Districts and Conference are always two major goals of the team. They have done very well in striving for these goals considering they are seated at number one for districts which they hope to win. Some other goals Smith feels are also important is to have a unified team and for the girls to "use the experience of athletics to grow and mature. Their season has basically been stable all year. They have improved a lot, and have beat some good teams.

Coch Smith stated that one player who has blossomed throughout the year is, freshman, Linda Burkart. She is the starting point guard and has displayed a lot of team leadership throughout the season. Linda was given All Tournament honors at Northland and at the University of Eau Claire. "Watching the team work together and getting better" is one reason why Burkart enjoys basketball.

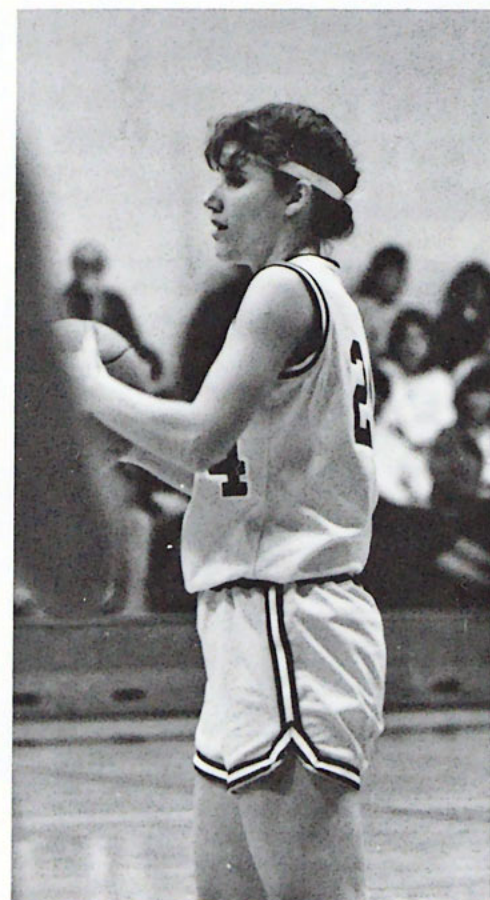

Smith feels that getting to know all of the players, working with them for four years and seeing how they have matured, is the truly rewarding aspect of his coaching career.

The Guys Come Out Strong

The 1988-89 Northwestern wrestling team was a small one. Coach Sam Taylor only had four wrestlers competing on the team this year. With only four members on the squad it was almost impossible to win a dual meet. But individually the Eagles grapplers were rough, giving their opponents all they could handle. A "Be A Winner" attitude was always stressed to the wrestlers by coach Taylor. Overall, despite their numbers, the Eagle wrestlers were a rough group of young men who strived for excellence on the mat.

IM Aerobics

How many times have you stood in front of a mirror and told yourself, "I have to start exercising"? How many times have you planned to jog daily and then swore never to do it again after you went around the block once? This has happened to almost everyone. Well it hasn't happened to those who are in aerobics. Believe it or not aerobics is exercise that is fun.

Aerobics classes were offered by the Intramurals office four days a week, and exercise classes were offered two days a week. Both were held upstairs in the the Student Center. There was a total of six aerobic instructors. Approximately 70 students were involved in it this last year. Senior Julie Beukelman enjoyed instructing aerobics because she "loved the people and to make them smile when they exercise." Not only is aerobics a fun way to exercise, but it also reduces stress and improves your self image. Freshman, Amy Messner, liked aerobics because, "it was a chance to get away from homework."

IM Basketball

This year I.M. Basketball was a popular sport for many. There was a total of seven women's teams and fourteen men's teams. The men's was split up into eight competitive leagues and six recreation leagues. The teams started off with pre-season games before Christmas break and came back to hit the court with seven weeks of playing time. The playoffs started the week before finals with many teams headed into the semi-finals. For the women the two teams were The Hartill Globe Trotters and The Fringe Benefits. The men's rec. finalists were Bald Eagles and Hoyas. Then for the competitive men's league the two top teams were The Home Boys and Liverpooljukin' Bobs.

Tare Watts only has eyes for the basket. Den Kilen displays his own unique style of shooting.

Up for two!

Sheila VanEssen takes time out for a breather.

IM Broomball

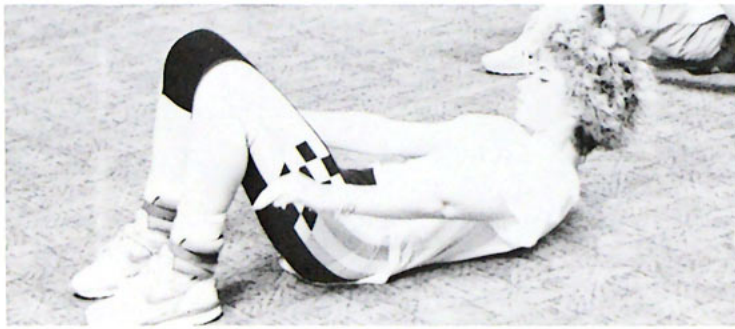

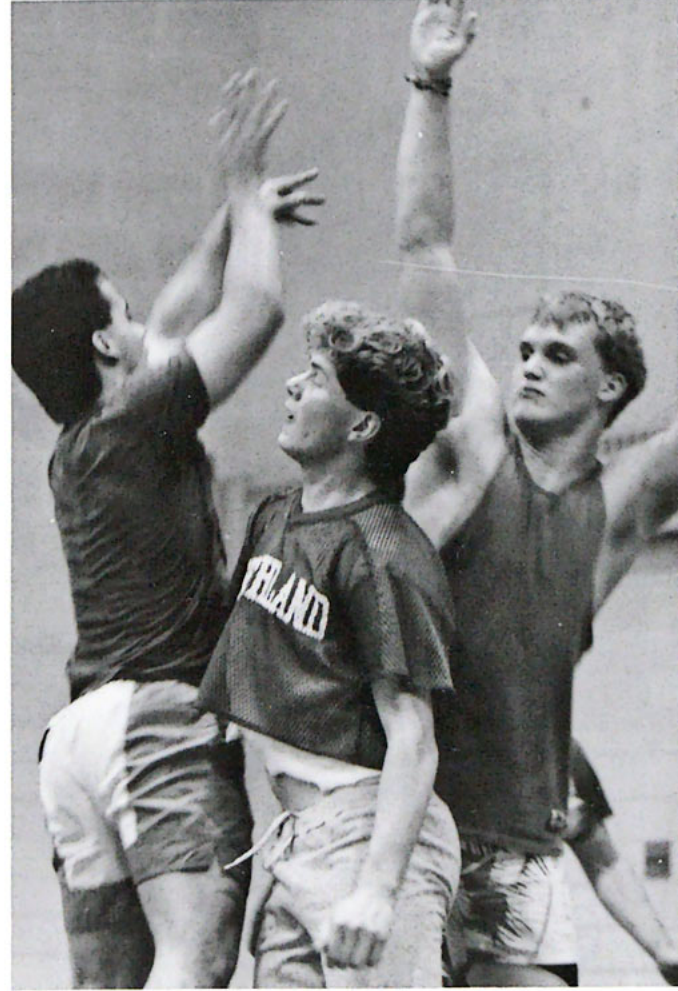

The lake was a common area for many to get together and have some fun on the ice. I.M. Broomball had a good turnout with 16 different teams competing. There were three divisions of broomball: the Norski's, the Finski's, and the Svenski's. The Norski's had six teams in its division while the other two had five each. The regular season games began January 9th and ended the 2nd of February. The playoffs then started February 13th and ended with the finals on study day, Tuesday, February 21st. The four top broomball champions were JJ's High Sticks playing Club Zambozos and LL Kool Sticks met Hubie Lewis and the News. Many players discovered how frustrating it can be to try to run on the slippery ice, but it was a time of great physical exercise and fun.

Fine Arts

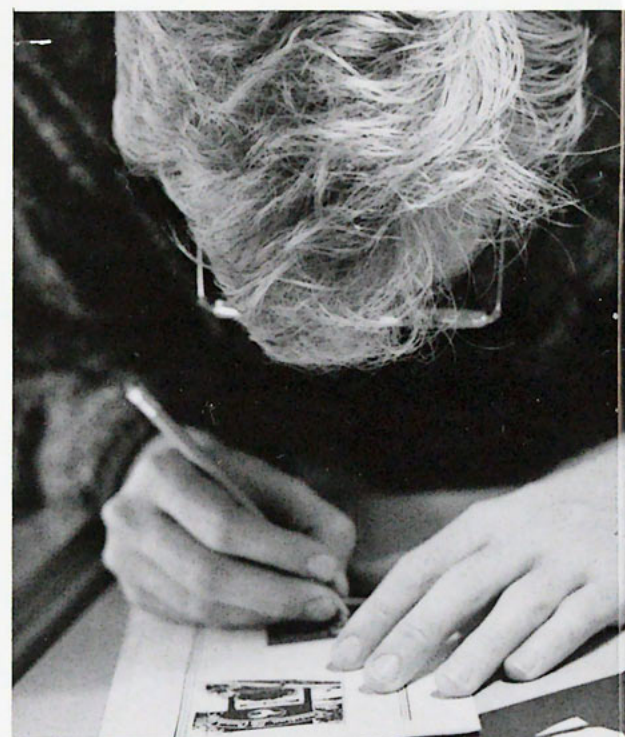

NWC Visual Arts

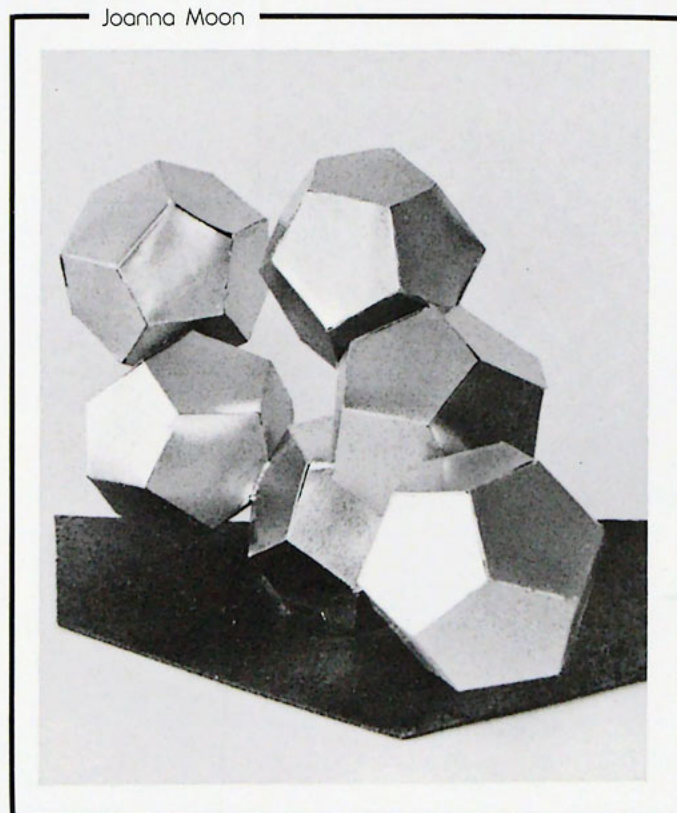

Students enter the art program at Northwestern with a variety of artistic abilities and personal interest in art. After gaining a broad perspective of different art techniques, the students are encouraged to branch out into the area of art they are interested in. The main objective for the students is maturing in their relationship with the Lord and to develop skills that glorify Him through their work. Because of the necessity of a double major at NWC, free time becomes very important to the students as they work to fulfill their artistic potential.

Oom-Pah-Pah!

After two months of hard work, Oliver!, the Northwestern college Fall production, was a big hit. The plays performances were held on October 28, 29 and Parents week-end November 3-5. There were 6 performances in all. The musical was directed by Carol Thomas-Johnson with Patsy Miller assisting. Brian Goldenman, music director, and Xiomara Ráqué Ugerre, Choreographer, also put in a lot of their time and expertise to help perfect the musical.

Oliver! is set in the mid 1800's in England. It is a story about a 13 year old orphan boy named Oliver Twist played by Christa Port. At the opening of the story, Oliver lives in a work house orphanage which is the rule of the scary Mr. and Mrs. Dumble played by Tom Murphy and Michele Sorvik. Through many hardships and experience in the home of an undertaker, Oliver escapes and ends up as pick-pocket boy for an old Jew named Fagin. Unfortunately, Oliver gets caught on the job and is taken to court. Little did he know that the result of such misfortune would be a new home with a caring family.

The musical was hard work for all of the players, but each felt in the end that it was worth it. Christa Carlson, Freshman, looking back says, "All of the great friends that I met made all the time and preparation worth it." The principles of the musical put a lot of time and hard work into the play, Christa Port expresses the sentiments of every one involved in Oliver!: "It was an awesome experience!"

The Good Doctor

Chekhov's Collection at NWC

From a doctor who pulls teeth without anesthetic and a sneezing splatterer to a bum who drowns himself for three rubles NWC Drama has it all in their winter production "The Good Doctor."

"The Good Doctor" is a comedy centering around a collection of Anton Chekhov's plays. It takes place in Russia during the late 1890's. Chekhov, played by Steve Strivers, serves as the narrator in the background introducing his plays.

This production was especially unique because it was staged in the Gold Room and directed to a smaller audience. Another thing that made this play unique is that it was the first time in approximately five years that a NWC production has been directed by students. The co-directors were senior Jennifer Johnson and junior Greg Srandafer.

There were a total of fourteen cast members who enjoyed being a part of the winter production. "It was a lot of fun because I got a chance to meet and work with new people," said freshman, Cyndi Hood. "The play gave the cast a chance to let their silly side shine" said co-director, Jennifer Johnson.

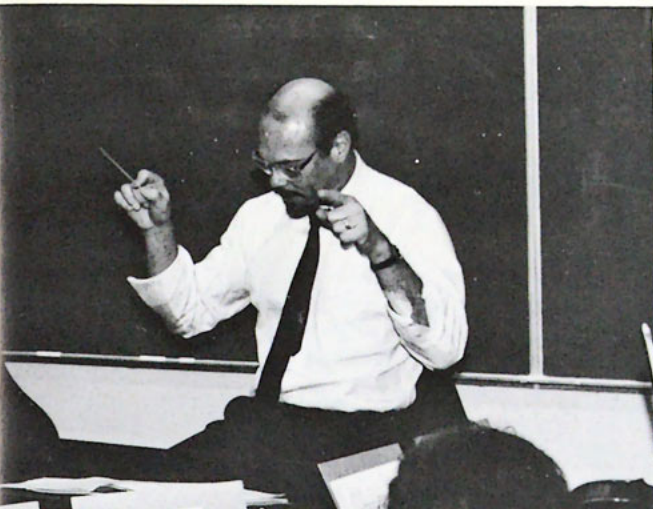

The play productions were held Friday, February third at 8:00 P.M. and Saturday, February fourth at 2:00 P.M. and 8:00 P.M.

United Orchestra

A Combined Effort In Music

The United Orchestra of Northwestern and Bethel Colleges is a prime example of how two schools can work together. Through their music, the United Orchestra combined their efforts to bring glory to God in their dedication and strong commitment to musical excellence.

The orchestra was directed by nationally recognized Dr. William Jones. Dr. Jones is the Founding Music Director and Administrator of the Greater Twin Cities Youth Symphonies as well as the Resident Conductor of the North Carolina School of the Arts. He assumed leadership of the United Orchestra in Fall of 1988.

This year, the orchestra numbered over thirty members, practicing one night a week at Bethel for the first half of the year, then at Northwestern for the last half. Besides individual growth and practices, the combined rehearsals were in preparation for major performances. The first event in which the United Orchestra performed was the Bethel College Christmas program. In the latter part of the year, the group held concerts in Northwestern's Nazareth Chapel. A Spring Concert featured the performances of the Concerto Contest's winners; Hollie Radell and Sheryl Johannsen.

The Northwestern Concert Band had a challenging year as thirty full-time band members came together with a variety of musical talents and experience. With the direction and support of band leader, Dr. Lynn Erickson, the group worked towards its two main goals of preparing for concerts and tours, and continuously working on the rhythm and pitch of musical pieces. The band brought us musical enjoyment in the Harvest Sounds Fall Concert, the Christmas Music Chapel, and the Pops Concert. The members shared their talents with others as they toured for four days during the spring quarter, and also performed at Christian schools during the year.

NWC Choir

Ministering To Others In Song

By developing and unifying the singing potential of sixty-four members the North-western Choir has been well equipped to go out and minister to people by song. Enjoying the directorship of Dr. Port (his second year with the choir) the group has served God through its inspirational contribution to Christmas at Northwestern, a chapel service, and in the Maranatha series "Elijah." Over spring break, the choir toured the Northeast, glorifying God as they sang to audiences in Boston, New York, and in the Washington D.C. area, touching lives with God's love along the way.

"We wish to establish a reputation of musical excellence for the chorale."

— Dr. Osterlund

Under Dr. Osterlund's first year of direction, the Women's Chorale strives for musical excellence in service to God.

The Women's Chorale has had a busy and demanding schedule during the 1988-89 season. One of the year's highlights was a week long tour of Florida over Spring Break. Singing in area churches enabled the chorale to minister and to enjoy the Florida sun before returning to the icy Minnesota winter. Other major concerts performed by the Women's Chorale included Christmas at Northwestern and the Homecoming Concert. The ladies also had the opportunity to minister to the student body of Northwestern during chapel. Another way the chorale shared their faith in Christ this year by singing in Twin City area churches. This year's Women's Chorale consists of a large number of freshmen, most likely resulting from the introduction of unified auditions between the Women's Chorale and the College Choir. Meeting four days a week, being a member of the chorale is both demanding and fulfilling work. "We wish to establish a reputation of musical excellence for the chorale," explains Dr. Osterlund. "I have been extremely pleased with how serious, hard working, and committed the chorale is."

"When in southern Ohio a boy come to know Christ and in rural Wisconsin a teenager responds to the challenge to dedicate his life, it is evident that the fourfold ministry of the group is being fulfilled."

— Dr. Wilson

Thirty-four members strong, one of the main goals of the Male Chorus is ministry through music. Under the direction of Dr. Wilson, his tenth year with the group, the chorus stresses musical growth and education within its members.

According to Dr. Wilson, the key to their concerts is ministry, "When in Southern Ohio a boy comes to know Christ and in rural Wisconsin a teenager responds to the challenge to dedicate his life, it is evidence that the fourfold ministry of the group is being fulfilled." Dr. Wilson goes on to explain, "The fourfold ministry is the blessing that comes through a male voice sound; the challenge to young people to seek the will of God in their lives; the impact of the testimony of college-age people in homes; and the opportunity of letting people know of the educational possibilities in a Christian liberal arts college."

The Male Chorus performs in Twin City area churches on weekends, the highlight of their season was a nine state tour from May 21 to June 5. The chorus traveled through Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, and North and South Dakota. One reason for taking this direction is that Northwestern College Radio is going on the air in Colorado Springs and Montana, corresponding to the men's tour. Correlating the voice of Northwestern with the singing groups and radio adds impact to the ministry of the college.

The experience each member of the Male Chorus receives during this season will prepare him for future leadership roles in music. Dr. Wilson comments that another main goal of the chorus is "to see each person develop in his music leadership as much as possible in the light of his future in the local churches where there is such a great need for good music."

Small Groups, Big Sounds

The Handbell Choir, Chamber Singers, And Soul Desire

A distinctive part of Northwestern's musical groups is the Handbell Choir. The ten member choir performs under the direction of Mrs. Mary Lou Tidman. Teamwork is an essential aspect of the Handbell Choir. Every part is important; every member is significant. The Choir meets three times a week in order to perfect their pieces. The Handbell Choir ministered in Twin City churches throughout the year. They also performed in Christmas at Northwestern and toured Florida with the Women's Chorale during Spring Break. These musicians bring their talents together in praise to the Lord.

Another one of Northwestern's outstanding smaller groups is the Chamber Singers. The Chamber Singers consist of twelve members of the College Choir who have volunteered to combine their talents in order to sing chamber music. Under the guidance of Dr. Port, the Chamber Singers prepared for Christmas at Northwestern, performing as an interlude to the Hymn Sing as well as at the Galas, during Fall Quarter, performed traditional madrigals during Winter Quarter, and performed a Pops Concert, mainly featuring love songs, in Spring Quarter. This ensemble is unique in a number of ways. For instance, the singers are not directed as they perform. Instead they listen and look at one another. The Chamber Singers give students exposure to a different type of literature than in the larger musical groups. They provide another style of singing.

Soul Desire showed that their title is more than just a name. They shared their individual and group talents by ministering in churches throughout the Mid-west, singing, sharing testimonies, and describing Northwestern College to those who listened. This small singing group keeps Christ in the center of their ministry, their soul desire. Determination and a sense of responsibility are key characteristics of members of this group. Each member worked hard and concentrated on their part to make the ensemble a success.

Fine Arts Festival

This year, for the first time, a two-evening student Fine Arts Festival was held in the Robertson Student Center. Art students displayed their wide variety of works, while the Chamber Singers and the String Quarter performed during the evening. There were also demonstrations on the different techniques in portrait drawing, ceramics, and computer graphics.

Stopping By Woods On A Snowy Evening

Whose woods these are I think I know.
His house is in the village, though;
He will not see me stopping here
To watch his woods fill up with snow.

My little horse must think it queer
To stop without a farmhouse near
Between the woods and frozen lake
The darkest evening of the year.

He gives his harness bells a shake
To ask if there is some mistake
The only other sound's the sweep
Of easy wind and downy flake.

The woods are lovely, dark, and deep,
But I have promises to keep,
And miles to go before I sleep
And miles to go before I sleep.

... Robert Frost

On Growing:

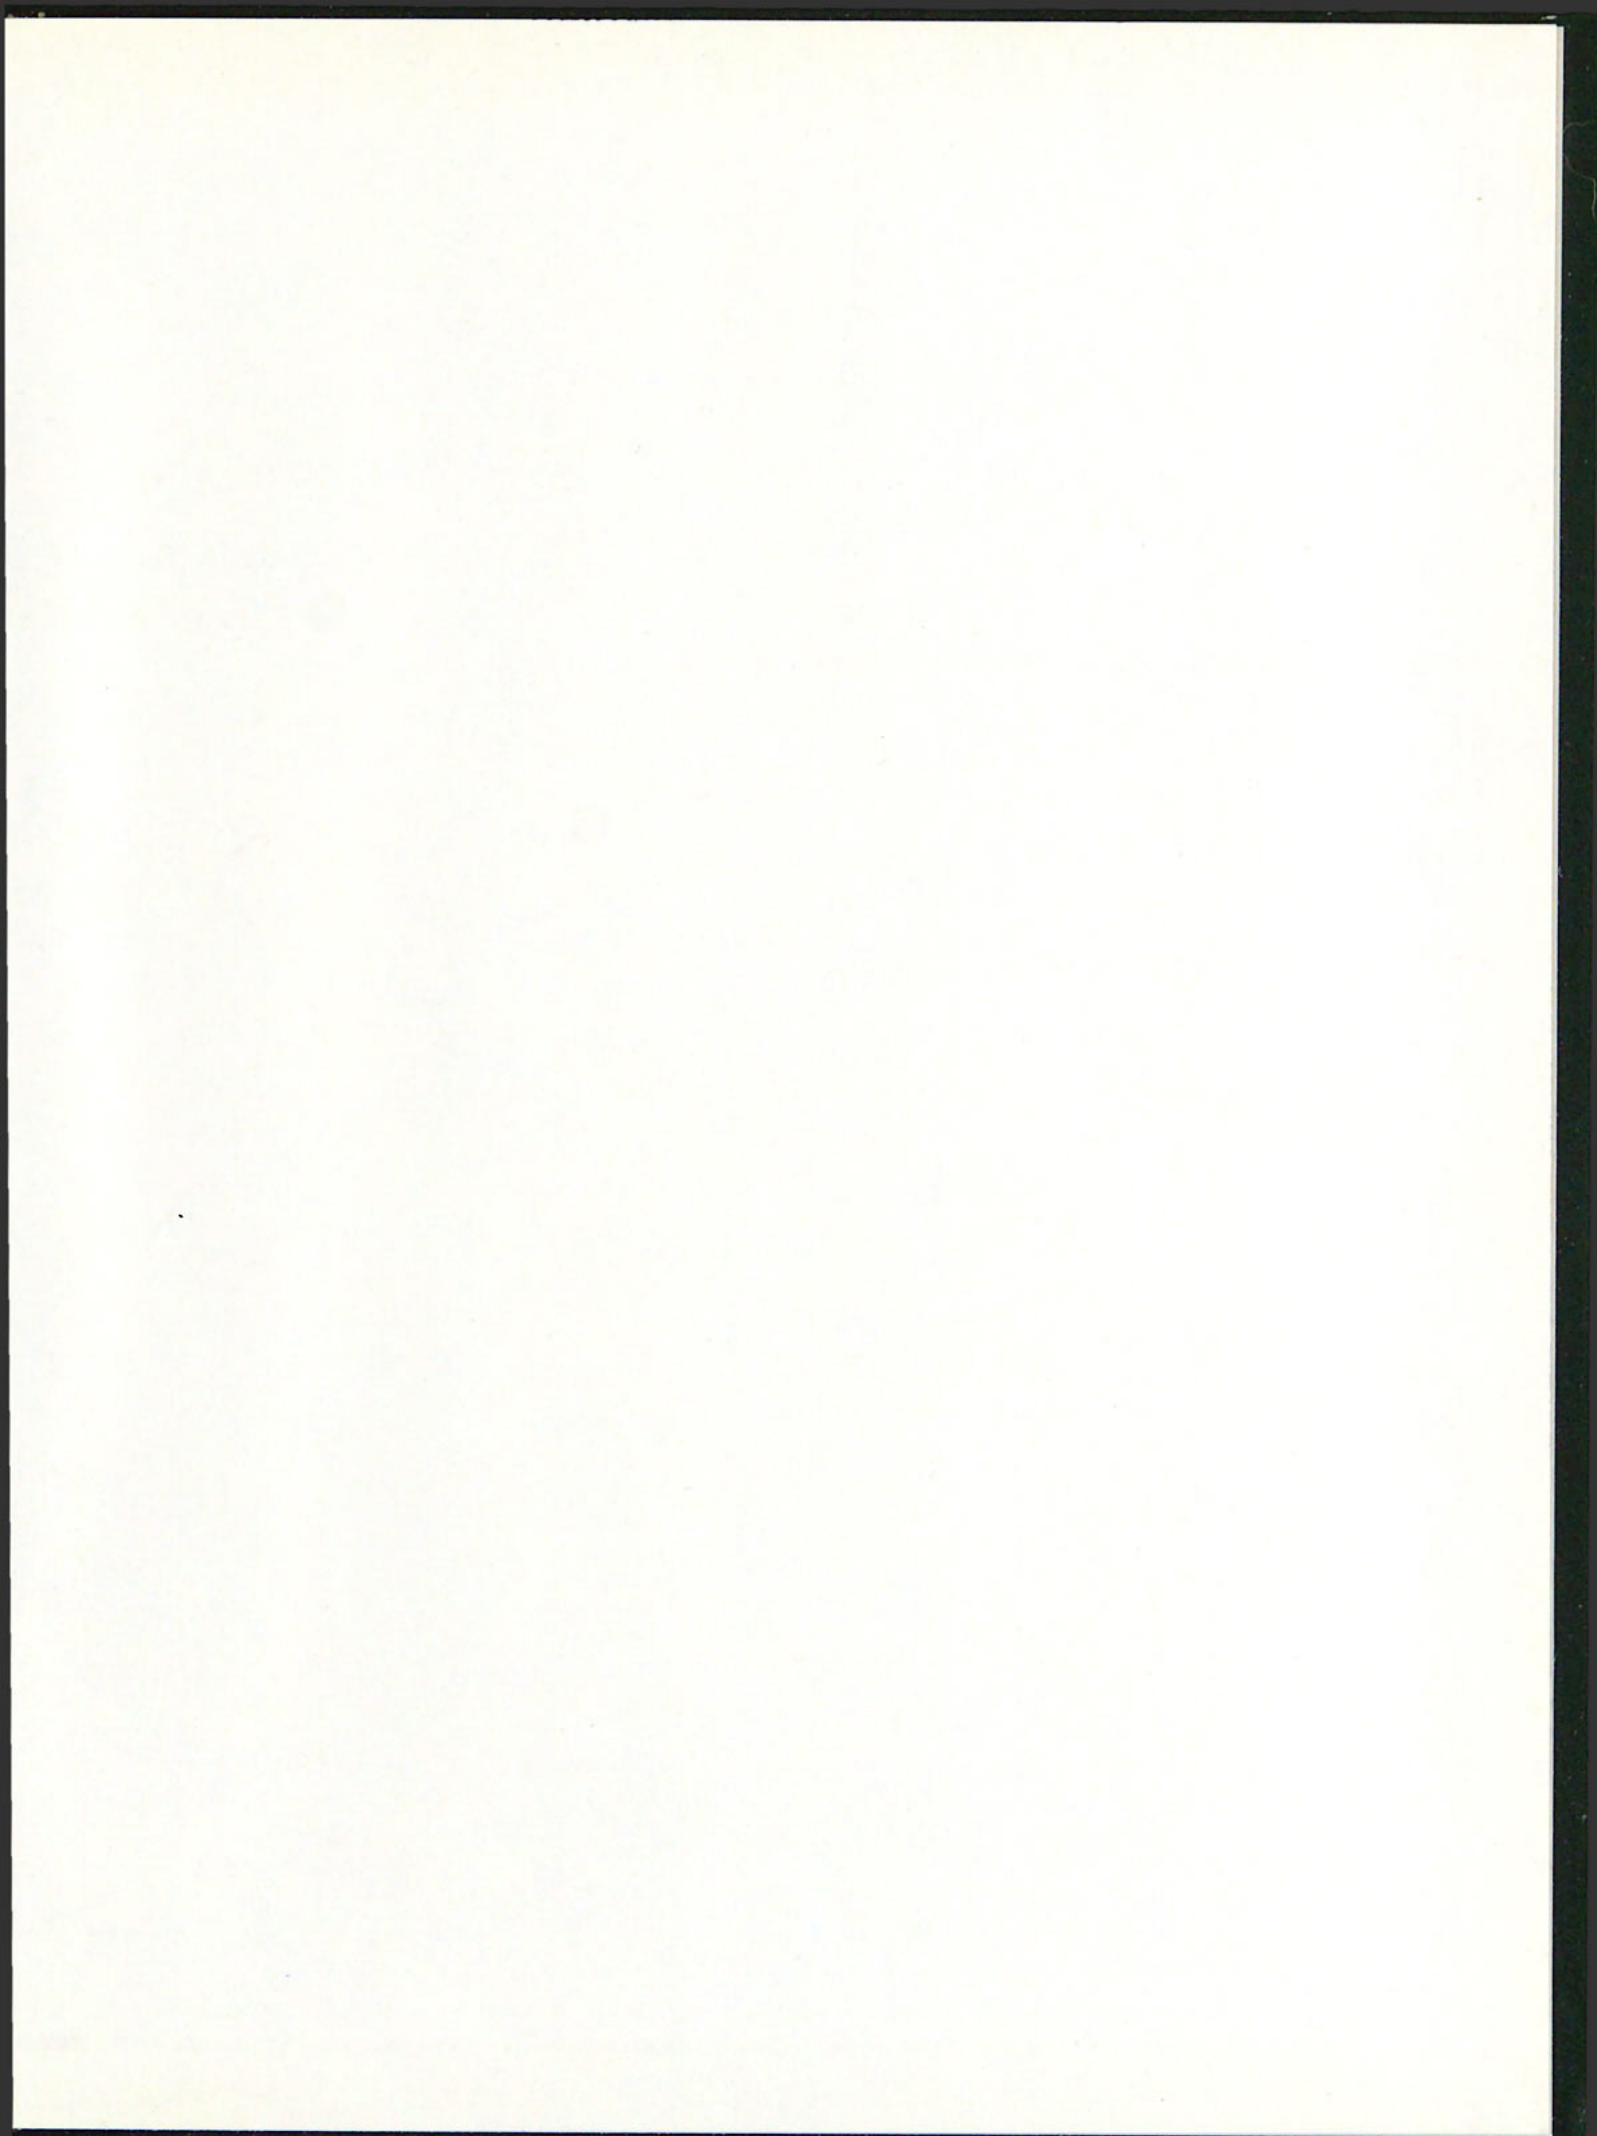

Roots deepen
Branches stretch toward the Son
We are pulled and pushed and opened to new things
We abide in the Vine of life
We are loved by the Father and some days we fail a little and some day we die a little
But in the Vine we have new life again.

Now looking onward to new jobs
coming back to school or not so sure of what's ahead
Yet all of us a little closer to bearing holy fruit.

God,
Always trim and make us pure
holy Spirit,
Shake our branches into love.
Jesus, Make us grow and bear your fruit.

The seasons change and so do we
God's children, strong and holy trees.
Please make us change right
So each branch grows keep us from the withered burning of your purifying fire
unless we need it.

So this is what being a branch is all about:
Growing and changing
Drawing Strength from the Vine.
Fruitful branches yielding,
depending on the Father's hand to prune and shape.
